Showing respect and empathy to all those we interact with is crucial to our mission.

C. Standards of Conduct

Community Services for Every1, Inc. representatives and all Affected Individuals are expected to comply with the following standards:

1. Business Principles

a. Maintain the Confidentiality of Agency Records

The agency is responsible and accountable for the integrity and protection of its business information. All agency records and documents (in any form or media) are the sole property of the agency and thereby considered confidential by its nature, except as provided by law or regulation. All agency information (i.e., policies, procedures, strategic or business plans, administrative memos, financial document, etc.), whether in electronic or written format, is confidential and may not be released or shared with others outside the agency without proper prior authorization.

No Community Services representative shall disclose to others any confidential information obtained during employment, work (paid or unpaid) or receipt of reports, which have not been published or disclosed, to the public. Documents and electronic media containing sensitive information on people receiving services, staff, consultants, volunteers, board members and other representatives of the agency must be carefully handled and properly secured. Once an agency representative terminates the relationship with the agency, they have no right to access or use agency information.

If any Community Services representative observes or becomes aware of a breach of this policy including misuse of confidential information, or an unauthorized or unrecognized individual using a computer terminal in an area familiar to you, immediately contact a supervisor and complete a Corporate Compliance Incident Report.

b. Cooperate and Maintain Confidentiality During an Agency Investigation

Agency representative that become aware of a situation that is in violation of agency policy, regulatory requirements, and/or law they are expected to report such violation to the appropriate agency personnel (see Reporting Suspected or Known Violation). Should an agency representative be contacted by an assigned agency investigator to provide statement regarding their knowledge of an incident or event they are expected to cooperate with the investigator by responding timely to phone calls and/or requests to meet. The agency has a non-retaliation policy whereby agency representatives will not be subject to reprisals for reporting or supplying information about potential violations, except in cases where those agency representatives are responsible for the violation or when deliberate false reporting has occurred.

The Agency has a compelling interest in protecting the integrity of all investigations, including evidence protection, and ensuring that witnesses do not experience any intimidation or harassment for their participation in an investigation. In some situations, it is necessary that the Agency require strict confidentiality of all information during an internal investigation and in those situations, all persons involved in the investigation should avoid disclosing information about an ongoing investigation in order to avoid:

- Harassment and intimidation of an investigation witnesses.
- Destruction of evidence.
- Fabrication of testimony.
- Attempts to cover up the event(s) that occurred.

c. Protect Agency Assets

It is the obligation of all Agency representatives to protect the assets of the Agency. Agency property, such as office supplies, office equipment, vehicles, and property may not be used for personal reasons. Computers, printers, fax machines, copiers, audio visual equipment, bulletin boards, phones, and other agency office equipment are the property of Community Services. The use of this equipment and the information conveyed through them may be reviewed or restricted by the Agency at any time. Employees are expected to restrict the use of all Agency equipment to professionally related material and to always represent the Agency in a positive manner. This equipment is provided for Agency use. The use of Agency property to view or transmit sexual material or derogatory material or any other information that could be interpreted as offensive or illegal will not be permitted at any time and will result in disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

Any misuse or misappropriations of agency funds, information, equipment, facilities, or other assets may be considered criminal behavior and can bring severe employment and legal consequences. Agency funds include, but are not limited to bank accounts, credit and debit cards, and business accounts. In addition, agency property such as janitorial and office supplies are available for business needs. Removal of such supplies from agency property for personal use may also be considered criminal.

d. Maintain the Corporate Image

The agency's reputation and identity are among its most valuable assets. No one should act in a way that adversely affects the reputation or image of the agency with employees, volunteers, people receiving services or with the community at large.

Recognizing the accomplishments of others, both internally and externally, shows appreciation for the value another person brings toward achieving our common goals.

Each agency representative should endeavor to deal fairly with the people receiving services, consultants, suppliers, competitors, and other employees. No one should take advantage of anyone else through manipulation, concealment, abuse of privileged information, misrepresentation of material facts, or other unfair-dealing practice.

While the agency cannot control what its representatives do during non-working hours, it is important to understand that information posted online, including use of social media may be public and comments made about the agency or agency representatives that are discriminatory or violate agency policy (i.e., confidentially, conflict of interest, harassment, bullying) can result in disciplinary action, no matter whether the employee wrote it from work or outside of work.

e. Have Job Accountability

Each agency representative is responsible for adhering to agency policy and for knowing and executing the responsibilities of his or her job independently. This means the individual is held accountable for the quality of the work he/she they/them produces. Each agency representative should be timely in their attendance, including recording accurate time worked (in office or remote work) and value the deadlines and schedule of others. In addition, management is responsible for ensuring that they have provided their employees with the necessary information to do their jobs.

Each agency representative shall display teamwork by assisting and being a resource to others. This includes communicating information, clearly and consistently, to all necessary parties and being open to constructive feedback. Positively resolving conflicts and effective problem solving are important traits in being a contributing part of the Community Services Team. Planning and prioritizing of workload are important attributes of an agency representative.

f. Avoid Conflicts of Interests

Each agency representative has a primary business responsibility to the agency and is expected to avoid any activity that may interfere or have the appearance of interfering with their performance. A conflict of interest exists if an agency representative outside business or other interests may affect adversely, or have the potential to affect adversely, his or her motivation, objectivity, loyalty, or performance. In addition, a potential conflict of interest occurs when an individual's personal or private interests might lead an independent observer to reasonably question whether the individual's professional actions or decisions are influenced by significant personal interest, financial or otherwise.

Agency Representatives shall not participate in the selection, award or administration of a contract supported by Federal, State, or other government funds if a real or apparent conflict of interest would be involved. Such a conflict would arise when the employee, officer, or agent, any member of his or her immediate family, his or her partner, or when the agency employs or is about to employ any of the parties indicated herein, has a financial or other interest in the firm selected for an award.

Some additional situations in which agency representatives might encounter that would be considered a conflict of interests are:

- Having a relationship with a person receiving services outside of the workplace and/or employment by a person receiving services and/or the family member of a person receiving services.
- Interacting and engaging on social media platforms with those supported by the agency can create a conflict of interest. It is important to have proper limits of a professional relationship between a provider of services and those supported.
- Directly supervising a family member as a contractor, supplier, or employee of the agency.
- Romantic relationships between a supervisor and a subordinate. Supervisor is defined as "a person who has authority, direct or indirect, over another by virtue of their job classification.

Subordinate is defined as “a person who is answerable to another person based on their job classification.” While the supervisor is ultimately held responsible for ensuring that this type of relationship does not occur, it does not absolve the subordinate of any wrongdoing.

- Using agency assets, including agency time, name, information equipment or facilities, for personal use without prior permission.
- Misuse of information obtained by an agency representative during the course of his or her employment;
- Soliciting personal cash or non-cash gifts of any amount or value from any person or business that has a relationship with the Agency;
- Accepting personal cash gifts of any amount from any person or business that has a relationship with the Agency;
- Financial transactions between people receiving services and/or their family members/responsibility parties;
- Outside employment that interferes with the employee’s job responsibilities and/or is in conflict with agency interests.
- Use of information created by or for the agency for personal gain or use by others outside the agency without prior permission.
- Working directly with someone that you have personal relationships with, whether due to a family connection or not, that interferes with work productivity and/or service delivery.

Specific agency representatives, as identified in the agency “Conflict of Interest Policy & Procedure, are required to complete the Agency “Conflict of Interest Disclosure/Confidentiality Agreement” form upon the beginning of the relationship with the agency and annually thereafter or as a conflict arises.

The above situations identified as “conflicts of interests” are not all inclusive. Agency representatives are expected to exercise good judgment and be mindful of how their personal relationships and outside activities may be affecting the workplace. Agency representatives may also find themselves in a situation where they do not feel like they can be objective in their decision making due to their personal relationship or beliefs. Should an agency representative feel that they are not able to be objective in making a business-related decision they should voluntarily abstain/refrain from participating in the decision-making process. Furthermore, if any matter exists that might be a conflict of interest or creates the appearance of a conflict of interest, agency representatives are required to consult their supervisor, Corporate Compliance Officer or Human Resources Representative to assess whether a problem exists.

g. Display Caution when Offered Gratuities

While performing their jobs, agency representatives may be offered gratuities which usually are intended as gestures of goodwill or appreciation. These include gifts, entertainment, gift cards, meals and beverages, tickets to sporting or cultural events, services, or other similar favors. Agency representatives may not accept, individually or as part of a group, anything that could reasonably be thought to have more than a nominal intrinsic value (nominal intrinsic value: i.e., promotional or advertising pens, pencils, notepads, calendars, greeting cards, trinkets, baked goods, or other similar gifts of limited value).

Gifts, gratuities, or attendance at events exceeding nominal intrinsic, typically greater than $25.00, should be refused or returned unless the Corporate Compliance Officer approves of acceptance as part of a business need or special occasion i.e., holiday gift basket during holidays to be shared amongst representatives.

Even nominal gifts can be inappropriate if used in a way which creates the impression that a certain vendor or person is receiving or attempting to obtain preferential treatment, therefore the acceptance of any gift, regardless of its value, must be done so with caution and when in doubt needs be reported to a supervisor to determine whether the gift may or may not be accepted to avoid a conflict of interest.

Acceptance or participation in a business meal situation is appropriate when based on a business need and such dining occurs in conjunction with business discussions.

These guidelines cannot cover every situation that may arise; employees should discuss with their supervisor or Corporate Compliance Officer any situation involving gratuities they are uncertain about.

h. Adhere to the Agency Media Communication Policy

It is the agency's policy to provide open, accurate, and consistent communication with the public. To maintain this policy and to protect the privacy of the individuals that we serve, designated Agency spokespersons are responsible for releasing information at the appropriate time to Media agencies and for guarding against the inadvertent disclosure of confidential information. All inquiries regarding the Media Communication Policy should be directed to the Coordinator of Corporate Communications, the Vice President of Program Support and Development or in their absence the President & CEO.

Social Media sites, such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, LinkedIn, fall under the umbrella of "media." It is important that all Agency representatives who identify themselves on these sites as having an affiliation with Community Services do not give readers the impression that their comments represent Agency opinion. If you are not a designated spokesperson for the Agency then any comments you make about agency activities on these sites could, depending on the content, be a violation of the Agency Media and Confidentiality Policy.

Employees of Community Services for Every1 are not permitted to communicate with members of the media (television, radio, newspaper, social media) regarding agency related topics without the approval of the Coordinator of Corporate Communications or in her absence the Vice President of Program Support and Development or President/CEO.

2. Quality of Care

a. Adhere to Individual's Rights and Responsibilities

By regulation all individuals receiving services are entitled to certain Rights and Responsibilities. It is expected that all agency representatives adhere to the provisions set forth in these regulations. Agency representatives shall not engage in any activities that constitute abuse of persons receiving services as defined in the regulations of the Commissioner of OPWDD. Failure to exercise one's duty to intercede or to report any activity, which may be considered abuse, will constitute abuse.

b. Follow Individual's Service Plan

Agency employees are expected to comply with each person's service plan and communicate any changes in the plan to the necessary parties in accordance with regulatory requirements and program policies and procedures.

It is not acceptable for people receiving services to carry out the duties of employees unless such tasks are described in their plan of services by their program planning team and for the purpose of increasing their skills.

c. Maintain Appropriate Interactions with those supported by the Agency

Agency representatives must treat people receiving services with dignity and respect and are expected to maintain professional relationships with people receiving services at all times. It is expected that the agency representative will treat people receiving services with respect and dignity at all times. It is essential that while it is important to build trusting relationships with those supported, it is duly important to maintain a professional and ethical relationship.

There shall be no personal financial transactions between agency representatives and people receiving services or their family/responsible party. Financial transactions, which may be construed as exploitation or result in greater benefit to the agency representative than the person receiving services will be considered abuse.

The receipt of any personal gift by any agency representative from any person receiving services or their family member/responsible party is discouraged and needs to be avoided. Depending on the circumstances a gift of nominal value may be allowed. An example of such a gift might be bake goods or a dollar store trinket. Any gift must be disclosed to the supervisor to determine whether the gift may or may not be accepted to avoid a conflict of interest.

Agency representatives may not accept cash gifts from individuals receiving services under any circumstances. However, cash donations from a family member/responsible party to the agency may be accepted. Should a family member/responsible party be interested in donating to the agency they should contact the Coordinator of Corporate Communications.

All agency representatives are expected to maintain a professional demeanor with people receiving services. It is also expected that agency representatives shall model appropriate and acceptable behavior while in the presence of people receiving services.

d. Safeguard Individuals Privacy

Agency representatives shall treat all clinical and program information as confidential and utilize such information in a professional manner at all times. Access to information on people receiving services must be limited to the extent permitted by the agency policies and procedure pursuant to state and federal law. In addition, release of information pertaining to HIV/AIDs, Substance Abuse and Psychotherapy/Counseling notes are subject to additional regulatory requirements and should not be released without the proper authorization to do so. Any Community Services representative who engages in unauthorized disclosure, access to, or misuse of information in violation of the privacy rights of people receiving services, or others may be subject to disciplinary action in addition to civil or criminal sanctions. Any Community Services representative who becomes aware of such unauthorized disclosure should immediately report this to their supervisor or Corporate Compliance Officer.

2. Medical Practices

Marketing materials will accurately reflect certification, licensure, and services available.

In addition, Community Services representatives must not make false statements with respect to the conditions or operations of any program nor make false statements with respect to information regarding ownership and control of a facility or program.

d. Refrain from Engaging in Unfair Trade Practices

All agency representatives are expected to comply with all laws pertaining to the restraint of trade and fair competition. Such laws generally forbid any kind of understanding or agreement (written or verbal) between competitors to fix and control fees or payments for services or products, or to engage in any other conduct that results in restraints of competition.

Unfair methods of competition and deceptive acts or practices are also prohibited. Examples of these include false or deceptive statements or comparisons about the agency's services or falsely disparaging competitor's services without data to substantiate it.

e. Adhere to Tax-Exempt Requirements

The Agency is a tax-exempt entity under the rules and laws of New York State and the Federal Internal Revenue Service. To comply with applicable law, the Agency must operate for the benefit of the community and avoid "private inurement" or "private benefit" as defined by these laws. Criminal penalties may be exercised if a violation of these tax laws is found and substantiated. In this regard, Community Services for Every1, Inc. representatives shall be familiar with these restrictions:

- The agency sales tax exemption is used only for legitimate agency business and service transactions.
- Personal items cannot be purchased through the agency even if reimbursement is offered.
- All appropriate withholding taxes must be applied to staff wages.
- Tax-exempt bonds are used to secure mortgages for agency properties where applicable. All restrictions on the use of property governed by the bonding authority shall be followed. Services and programs associated with bonds will be properly discharged. Violation of the condition related to bonds may affect future borrowing by the agency and/or the bonding authority.

f. Comply with Fundraising Standards

The agency adheres to acceptable fundraising standards. Only fundraising activities that benefit the agency and the programs or services are allowed and must be specifically authorized by the Corporate Compliance Officer and President & CEO. Fundraising events must be consistent with the mission, vision, goals, mandates, and values of the agency. Agency representatives who wish to conduct a fundraiser of any type must complete a formal Request to Fundraise and submit to the Coordinator of Corporate Communications and Special Events for approval.

Any Community Services for Every1, Inc. representative that obtains funds because of fundraising activities on behalf of the agency must promptly deposit the funds with the Business Office for appropriate record keeping and cash controls. A receipt for funds deposited must be obtained from the appropriate Business Office Personnel.

g. Submit Accurate Billings and Financial Reports

Billing activities are to be performed in a manner consistent with Medicaid and other payers' regulations and requirements. The agency will comply with all pertinent regulations in billing practices, including, but not limited to, specific program requirements, need for service, procedure codes, bad debt reporting, credit balances, and duplicate billing.

All billing and claims generated must accurately reflect those services rendered are supported by relevant documentation and are submitted in compliance with applicable laws, rules, regulations, and program requirements. Agency representatives should never knowingly make or present improper, false, fictitious, or fraudulent claims to any government or private health care program, employee, department, or agency. Improper activity can include, but is not limited to:

- Misrepresentation of Services
- Duplicate Billing
- Multiple Coverage and Secondary-Payroll Fraud
- False Claims Statements
- Falsifying Dates on a Claim

Those responsible for completing and submitting financial reports will do so in accordance with acceptable accounting practices and legal obligations. Improper accounting practices include, but are not limited to:

- Supplying false or misleading information in the Agency's financials or other public documents, including its annual information return; or
- Providing false information to, or withholding material information from, the Agency's auditors.

It is a crime to submit a "False Claim." A False Claim occurs when a person or organization submits a record or claim for payment of services, property, or other items to the government, knowing that the information is not true. "Knowing" means that the person or organization:

- knows the record or claim is false, or
- is asking for payment and is deliberately ignoring whether the record or claim is false, or
- is asking for payment and does not care if the record or claim is false.

The Federal Government enacted the False Claims Act law that allows a person who knows that an organization has filed a False Claim for payment to file a lawsuit in Federal Court on behalf of the government, and, in some cases, the person can receive a portion of the damages awarded. Like the Federal Law described above, the New York False Claims Act and the Program Fraud Civil Remedies Act prohibits a person or entity from "knowingly" presenting or causing to be presented a false or fraudulent claim for payment or approval to any employee, officer or agent of the state or local government. There are additional civil, administrative, and criminal laws that apply to the submission of a false claim. Additional information on these laws is available in the Employee Personnel Policy and Procedure Manual, by contacting the Corporate Compliance Officer, or you can visit the Office of the Medicaid Inspector General's website at www.omig.state.ny.us.

h. Refrain From Accepting Kickbacks

The term "kickback" is defined as the giving of remuneration of any kind, which is interpreted under the law as "anything of value". In the United States it is illegal to provide, offer or accept a kickback or bribe. A kickback or bribe may be defined as any money, fee, commission, credit, gift, gratuity, anything of value or compensation of any kind that is provided directly or indirectly, and that has as one of its purposes, the improper obtaining or rewarding or favorable treatment in a business transaction.

No agency representative or other agency representative shall solicit, receive, offer to pay, or pay remuneration of any kind in return for referring an individual for items or services, or purchasing, leasing, ordering, or arranging for goods, facilities, services or items for which payment may be made under federal, state, or local health care programs.

All Community Services for Every1, Inc. representatives should avoid the offering or receipt of a gift in circumstances where it could appear that the purpose of the gift is to influence the agency's relationship with a vendor, regulator or other person or entity. The receipt of any gift by any agency representative from a vendor, contractor, etc.... must be disclosed to the supervisor to determine whether the gift may or may not be accepted to avoid a conflict of interest.

i. Follow Research Grant Standards

Research grant proposals involving people that the agency serves are subject to the provisions or applicable state and federal laws and regulations. Researchers must be vigilant in considering whether grants involve improper inducements for referrals. Research, which encourages or results in improper referral practices, could constitute "kickback" in violation of federal and state law.

j. Be Familiar with Regulations Governing Areas of Responsibility

It is expected that all agency representatives adhere to the rules and regulations set forth by New York State and the Federal Government and comply with any contractual obligations the agency may have. In addition, Community Services for Every1, Inc. representatives shall:

- Be familiar with program regulations governing areas of responsibility, receive and understand new regulations and/or expectations and to inform the supervisor or appropriate agency administrator of any possible issues of non-compliance.

This committee discusses ideas and learns about differing viewpoints. Through discussion, the committee finds ways to help Community Services improve policy, training, and celebration regarding Diversity and Inclusion. All committee members understand that everyone sees and experiences the world differently. All members have the right to feel safe and always share their authentic selves with the group.

d. Display Ethical Professional Personal Conduct

Ethical professional personal conduct on the job means treating oneself and others with respect and fairness. Employees are expected to conduct themselves professionally and appropriately in interactions with individuals served, co-workers, family members, management staff, and any external visitors or guest to their worksite. All employees should refrain in such a way that could be considered discriminatory, harassing, or degrading to others. Additionally, workplace bullying is not acceptable. Workplace bullying is repeated, health-harming mistreatment by one or more employees of an employee: abusive conduct that takes the form of verbal abuse; or behaviors perceived as threatening, intimidating, or humiliating; work sabotage; or in some combination of the above.

Workplace harassment includes both sexual harassment and harassment in a more general nature. Sexual harassment includes both quid pro quo and hostile work environment scenarios. Other forms of harassment include unwelcome or unwanted attention or discrimination conduct based on an individual's race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, sexual preference, marital status, age, and/or disability. Examples of harassment include, but are not limited to inappropriate jokes, offensive body language such as finger pointing, or offensive materials such as sexually explicit pictures. It can include verbal, nonverbal or physical abuse. Something considered harmless by one individual may be perceived as harassment by another. The agency expects all agency representatives to conduct themselves in a manner appropriate to the workplace and to keep all work environments free of harassment.

e. To Maintain Agency Representative Privacy

Every agency representative has the right to confidentiality of certain employment records as well as the privacy of personal activities outside of business hours. In turn, the agency has rights of access to all agency property and communication, records and information created in the business setting. By using agency property and/or creating such records and information, the agency representative consents to such access.

The agency will not release information regarding our current agency representatives without written consent unless it is required by a program survey, subpoena, or public record. An internal investigation may at times require the review and /or release of certain personnel information to agency personnel, law enforcement, and/or oversight bodies.

The agency emphasizes the need for balance between work, personal and family life, and encourages agency representatives to pursue interests and activities outside the workplace. Personal interests and beliefs, however, must not be imposed on other agency representatives or people receiving services. The agency recognizes the agency representative's rights to become involved in political activities of their choice. However, activities should not interfere with the agency representative's ability to perform their job and should not imply participation on the part of the agency.

In addition to the Agency Code of Business Conduct and Ethics, Community Services has established written standards and expectation identified as the Agency core beliefs and behaviors. Community Services believes that these standards and expectations define the personal characteristics and qualities, which contribute to the fulfillment of its mission and expect that all employees will make it their daily mission to exhibit them.

Additionally, the Direct Support Professional (DSP) Code of Ethics provides a framework for ethical decision making as it relates to the treatment of people receiving services. While specifically intended for DSPs, Community Services believes and expects all agency personnel to follow these guidelines. All employees receive and sign a copy of the DSP Code of Ethics upon hire and annually thereafter. It can also be located online at the following address: <https://www.nadsp.org/>

VIII. Screening Applicants

Job applicants and other agency representatives who have been selected for employment or other positions within the agency must complete a series of background checks to assure that there are no historical/personal incidents involving the applicant, which would adversely affect their ability to carry out their job duties or call into question their personal character in performing their job. Applicants for positions requiring specific credentials and/or licensure are required to provide verification of such.

In addition to checking a person's criminal history, abuse of individuals with special needs history, sexual offense history and depending on their position driving record and child abuse history, the agency checks the N.Y. State Office of the Medicaid Inspector General, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of the Inspector General, and the United States General Services Administration List of Parties Excluded from Federal Programs exclusion databases to determine whether or not the person or entity's participation in Medicaid or other government funded programs have been restricted, terminated or excluded.

Agency representatives are required to inform the Human Resources Coordinator immediately of any changes in their driving record (if an agency approved driver), criminal background and child abuse history. Supervisors must inform the V.P. of Administrative Services of any change reported.

Outside legal counsel may be notified at the discretion of the President & CEO of incidents that have a reasonable cause to support the assertion of non-compliance, at which time the Compliance Officer will be responsible for facilitating an investigation. The results of the investigation will be used by legal counsel to provide legal advice to the Compliance Officer, Compliance Committee and Community Services for Every1, Inc.

XI. Reporting Suspected or Known Violations

All Community Services for Every1, Inc. representatives have a responsibility to report in a timely fashion any violations of the Agency's Code of Business Conduct & Ethics. The Corporate Compliance Plan encourages individual responsibility for reporting any activity by any agency representative or affiliate that reasonably appears to violate applicable laws and regulations or Corporate Compliance requirements. Any notice regarding potential litigation against the Agency and/or suspected violations of law by the Agency must be reported to the President & CEO.

The Agency has an open-door policy that encourages agency representatives to share their questions, concerns, suggestions or complaints with someone who can address them properly. In most cases, an agency representative's supervisor is in the best position to address an area of concern. Supervisors and managers are required to notify the Corporate Compliance Officer of any reported violations of the Agency Code of Business Conduct & Ethics. If the violation was reported verbally to the supervisor or manager, the reporting individual, with the assistance of the person they reported it to, shall write up the concern and forward it to the Corporate Compliance Officer

When the agency representative is not satisfied with their supervisor's response, is not comfortable speaking with their supervisor, or if at any time the agency representative prefers, he/she they/them can contact the Corporate Compliance Officer directly. The agency has established a "Corporate Compliance Hotline." This reporting system provides agency representatives the ability to report potential Corporate Compliance violations 24 hours a day. The "Corporate Compliance Hotline" is accessed by calling 362-7631 ext. 707 and is a direct line to the Corporate Compliance Officer. This number provides anyone calling an opportunity to leave an anonymous message. While anonymous calls are accepted; agency representatives are encouraged to leave detailed information. The "Corporate Compliance Hotline" may also be accessed for callers to pose questions regarding any compliance issues. Should the caller leave their name and number, the Corporate Compliance Officer will respond to any questions within 10 business days or less. Agency representatives can also contact the Corporate Compliance Officer (V.P. of Program Support & Development) directly at 883-8888 ext. 143 or by forwarding a written correspondence to:

*Kelly Kinderman, Vice President of Program Support and Development and Designated Corporate Compliance Officer
180 Oak St.
Buffalo, NY 14203*

A written correspondence can also be posted to Community Services' Website at www.csevery1.com "Contact Us" or via the Employee Portal "Report to the Compliance Officer" or sent via email to compliance@csevery1.com

Any concern about the President & CEO should be reported to the Corporate Compliance Officer, who will in turn notify the Board Chairperson. A concern involving the Corporate Compliance Officer's actions should be brought directly to the President & CEO.

If any agency representative needs guidance on a legal or ethical question, has witnessed or has knowledge of an illegal or unethical activity, he/she they/them should seek the counsel of the agency Corporate Compliance Officer. Failure to report compliance issues could lead to disciplinary measures.

XII. Whistleblower Protection and Statement of Non-Intimidation and Retaliation

The Whistleblower Protection is intended to encourage and enable agency representatives and others to raise serious concerns within the Agency prior to seeking resolution outside the Agency.

Questions or concerns about any ethical, legal, and/or regulatory issues may be raised without concern for disciplinary action as long as they are made in good faith and there are reasonable grounds for believing the information disclosed indicates a violation of the Agency Code of Business Conduct & Ethics.

Agency representatives will not be subject to reprisals for reporting or supplying information about potential violations, except in cases where those agency representatives are responsible for the violation or when deliberate false reporting has occurred. Agency representatives are also protected under this provision and the False Claims Acts against any form of retaliation for filing a False Claim lawsuit. It protects an agency representative who files a false claims lawsuit from being fired, threatened, harassed, or other forms of retaliation.

Any allegations that prove not to be substantiated and that prove to have been made maliciously or knowingly to be false will be viewed as a serious disciplinary offense.

Any agency representative who retaliates or harasses someone who has reported a violation in good faith is subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment. It is expected that all Community Services representatives will fully cooperate with any investigation of potential violation. New York Labor Laws also protect employees from retaliatory practices. Additional details regarding these laws may be obtained by contacting a Human Resources Representative, the Corporate Compliance Officer, or visiting the New York State Department of Labor website at www.labor.state.ny.us.

Community Services for Every1 prohibits any act of retribution, discrimination, harassment, intimidation, or retaliation, against any member of its workforce or contractor who, in good faith, participates in CSE1 Compliance Program activities, including, but not limited to:

- Reporting or responding to Compliance Issues;
- Investigating Compliance Issues;
- Conducting or responding to audits, investigations, reviews, or compliance self-evaluations;
- Drafting, implementing, or monitoring remedial actions;
- Reporting compliance-related concerns to any government entity;
- Attending or performing compliance-related training;
- Otherwise assisting in any activity or proceeding regarding any Compliance Issue.

A good faith report means one where the individual believes the information reported to be true and where the report is not made for the purpose of harming the standing or reputation of Community Services for Every1, or a member of its workforce, or a contractor.

The protections of this statement do not apply to:

- Untruthful or unfounded allegations of wrongdoing;
- Allegations whose nature or frequency indicate an intent to harass or embarrass CSE1, a member of its workforce, or a contractor; or
- Instances where individuals report their own lapses or complicity in unacceptable conduct. In such instances, the act of reporting will not be subject to sanctions, but the underlying conduct may be subject to disciplinary action.

XIII. Investigations & Corrective Action

Any suspected violations will be investigated by the appropriate personnel, typically Compliance or Human Resources personnel. There are however investigations, depending on the severity, that may be assigned directly to a mid to upper-level manager. All investigations are overseen by the Corporate Compliance Officer. All investigations will be treated confidentially to the extent consistent with corporate interests and legal obligations. Results of investigations into suspected violations will be documented and reported to the President & CEO and/or other Vice President as necessary. If the results of an investigation indicate that corrective action is required, the agency will decide the appropriate steps to take, including discipline, dismissal and/or possible legal proceedings. If appropriate, the investigation may be turned over to applicable outside authorities, and outside investigators may assist in the inquiry.

The investigation process is further described in Attachment C.

XIV. Response & Discipline for Violations

Each agency representative is responsible for conducting him or herself according to legal and ethical standards. No one has the authority to make another person violate the agency Corporate Compliance Plan, and any attempt to direct or otherwise influence someone else to commit a violation is a violation. Representatives who violate provisions outlined in this plan could be subject to appropriate disciplinary action, up to and including termination. In addition, violations identified in the Agency "Zero Tolerance Statement" (Attachment D) will result in immediate termination.

Agency representatives who violate the Corporate Compliance Plan may also be subject to substantial criminal fines, prison terms and civil damages for violating laws and government regulations.

XV. Compliance Training

All new agency employees are required to take the Corporate Compliance training during New Employee Orientation and annually thereafter. This training will include the nature and scope of the Corporate Compliance Plan, information on laws enacted to prevent and detect fraudulent billing (i.e., False Claims Act and the Program Fraud and Civil Remedies Act-Attachment E), methods to report violations, Whistleblower Protection, and disciplinary measures for violating the plan. The training may be supplemented by specific regulatory training and reminders geared toward the employee's responsibilities as needed throughout the year. Annually all employees will be required to sign the agency Code of Business Conduct and Ethics and Confidentiality Agreement (Attachment F).

All other agency representatives i.e., volunteers, consultants, committee members, and Board Members will receive the Corporate Compliance training through the agency representative who will provide direct oversight to him/her or they/them.

XVI. Compliance Auditing

The agency Corporate Compliance Officer and Corporate Compliance Committee are responsible for ensuring that internal and external corporate compliance auditing takes place on a regular basis. Compliance related audits are conducted because of an investigation or as a proactive means of monitoring compliance in areas of actual or potential risk.

The Corporate Compliance Officer is primarily responsible for overseeing compliance auditing. This shall include, but is not limited to, periodic and regularly scheduled reviews of documentation, billing, claims processing and reimbursement procedures, quality of services, accounting practices, as well as practices that are mandated by agency policy and procedure to ensure adherence with federal and state regulations. Specifically, program fiscal audits will be conducted utilizing the Office for People with Developmental Disabilities Fiscal Review auditing guidelines to determine whether there is adequate documentation to support billing submitted. Additionally, Community Services for Every1, Inc. will utilize other Governmental and Regulatory Audits/Reviews as a method for obtaining feedback regarding compliance.

Audit findings and recommendations are reported to the President & CEO, the Corporate Compliance Committee, and the appropriate agency administrator. As needed or requested response plans will be completed by the operational management and incorporated into the final audit report.

XVII. Wrongful Billing and Self-Disclosure

It is the expectation of Community Services for Every1, Inc. that all service documentation will be an accurate reflection of services provided and that only those eligible to receive services per regulatory requirements will be billed for. Upon discovery or suspicion that the agency may have wrongly billed for services that were either not rendered or not allowable per regulatory requirements steps will be taken to investigate the situation and when necessary, void or adjust the billing per agency guidelines. This also includes situations where the billing was submitted correctly to the Business Office, however, was not processed correctly and thus a billing error occurred. Should it become evident that an employee of the agency knowingly submitted a false claim it will be reported to the Office of the Medicaid Inspector General (OMIG) and Office of People with Developmental Disabilities (OPWDD), and the person's employment will be terminated. In addition, the agency will monitor for other situations which may be appropriate for self-disclosure to the OMIG and OIG including, but not limited to:

- Substantial routine error, and/or,
- Systematic error, and/or
- Pattern of error.

The OMIG Self-Disclosure Program is the mechanism that CSE1 uses to return self-identified Medicaid fund overpayments. The Self-Disclosure Program is the mechanism providers must use to self-report Medicaid Program matters that involve possible fraud, waste, abuse, or inappropriate payment of funds which they have identified through self-review, compliance programs, or internal controls.

Community Services for Every1 are required to report, return, and explain any overpayments received by them to OMIG within sixty (60) days of identification (or when there is a discovery that there is a problem with the billing including due diligence investigation), or by the date any corresponding cost report was due, whichever is later. See Social Services Law (SOS) section 363-d.

When CSE1 has identified an overpayment, we are required to submit a Self-Disclosure Statement, Certification, and Claims Data File (if applicable) to the OMIG secure uplink that contains all required information. CSE1 will receive an auto-generated response confirming that your submission was received. This submission will toll, or pause, your 60 days while OMIG processes your disclosure. We must cooperate with the self-disclosure process and provide any additional requested information to keep that sixty (60) days tolled during the review.

Inappropriate Medicaid payments received should be self-disclosed. Examples could include, but are not limited to:

- Billing errors;
- Fraudulent behavior by employees or others;
- Discovery of an employee on the Excluded Provider list;
- Documentation errors that resulted in overpayments;
- Overpayments that resulted from changing billing systems.

Program Management should refer to the wrongful billing memorandum for submitting billing voids and adjustments.

XVIII. Certification

Upon the first day of employment or at the onset of the relationship with the Agency, the Community Services representative will receive a copy of the Agency Code of Business Conduct & Ethics for review and signature, as well as the Personnel Policy and Procedure Manual (Employee Handbook). In addition, all Agency employees will upon completion of the Corporate Compliance Training, receive certification that the agency Corporate Compliance Plan has been reviewed with them.

Annually, at the time of the Medicaid Eligible Anniversary the agency will certify with the N.Y. State Office of the Medicaid Inspector General that the agency's has a Medicaid Compliance Plan meets their standards and that the agency is in compliance with ensuring employee education about False Claims.

XIX. Conclusion

The Corporate Compliance Plan has been prepared to outline the broad principles of legal and ethical business conduct embraced by Community Services for Every1, Inc. It is not a complete list of legal or ethical questions you might face during business, and therefore this plan must be used together with your common sense and good judgment. In addition, for specific guidance in certain areas covered by this plan Community Services has adopted detailed policy and procedure manuals. If you are in doubt or have a specific question, you should contact you supervisor or the agency Corporate Compliance Officer.

Attachment D- Zero Tolerance Statement

Zero Tolerance Statement

Community Services continues to vigorously strive for the highest standards at all times. We are committed to maintaining a pleasant work environment that is a desirable and create a rewarding experience for agency representatives. It is the responsibility of ALL agency representatives to maintain the highest standards of conduct for themselves. Every person has a responsibility to comply with and support our Zero Tolerance Statement and to behave in a manner that is respectable.

The intent of this policy is to set the expectation for those behaviors that Community Services has deemed as severe and unacceptable resulting in termination. When enforcing the zero tolerance standards the following should be considered: the intent of the offender, the effect of the transgression on others (both those directly and indirectly involved), and, finally the impact on the agency. The punishment should fit the "crime."

"Zero Tolerance essentially means that no intentional behavior will be tolerated that is deliberately perpetrated with the purpose of harming others or the agency, for personal gain or vengeance. Transgressions include but are not limited to: failure to treat individuals receiving services with dignity and respect, workplace violence, fraud, vandalism, theft of any kind, the use of any object as a weapon and/or conducting any type of illegal activity."

Attachment E- Federal and State Statutes Filing False Claims

Federal and New York Statutes Filing False Claims

Numerous federal and State laws prohibit health care providers from submitting "false" or "fraudulent" claims to Medicare and Medicaid and other federally-funded health care programs. Presented below is a listing and description of various federal and State statutes related to the filing of false Medicare and Medicaid claims.

Federal Laws

1. False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. 3729-3733

The federal False Claims act imposes penalties and fines on individuals and entities that file false or fraudulent claims for payment from Medicare, Medicaid, or other federal health programs. The penalty for filing a false claim is $5,500 - $11,000 per claim and the recoverable damages are between two and three times the value of the amount falsely received. In addition, the false claims filer may have to pay the governments' legal fees.

The false claims act allows private individuals to file lawsuits in federal court, just as if they were federal prosecutors. If the suit eventually concludes with payments back to the government, the person who started the case can recover 25-30% of the proceeds if the government did not participate in the suit, or 15-25% if the government did participate in the suit.

2. Administrative Remedies for False Claims, 31 U.S.C. 3801-3812

This statute allows for administrative recoveries by federal agencies. If a person submits a claim that the person knows is false, or contains false information, or omits material information, then the agency receiving the claim may impose a penalty of up to $5,000 for each claim. The agency may also recover twice the amount of the claim.

Unlike the False Claims Act, a violation of this law occurs when a false claim is submitted, not when it is paid. Also, unlike the False Claims Act, the determination of whether a claim is false and the imposition of fines and penalties is made by the administrative agency, not by prosecution in the federal court system.

New York State Laws

New York false claims laws fall into two categories: administrative and civil laws; and criminal laws. Many of the laws overlap. Some apply to recipient false claims, and some apply to provider false claims.

A. Administrative and Civil Laws

1. Social Services Laws 145-c If any person applies for or receives public assistance, including Medicaid, by intentionally making a false or misleading statement, or intending to do so, the person's needs, the person's family's needs are not taken into account for six months if a first offense, 12 months if a second (once if benefits received are $1,000 - $3,900), 18 months if a third (or once if benefits received are over $3,900) and five years for four or more offenses.

2. Social Services Law 145-b False Statements. It is a violation to knowingly obtain or attempt to obtain payment for items or services furnished under any Social Services program, including Medicaid, by use of a false statement, deliberate concealment or other fraudulent scheme or device.

The State or the local Social Services district may recover three times the amount incorrectly paid. In addition, the Department of Health may impose a civil penalty of up to $2,000 per violation. If repeat violations occur within five years, a penalty up to $7,500 per violation may be imposed if they involve more serious violations of Medicaid rules, billing for services not rendered or providing excessive services.

B. Criminal Laws
